Some thrifty citizen or plural broke into the back warehouse of the Ludwig Lumber Co. last Thursday night and took five barrels of lime, one barrel plaster and six 16-ft. 12-inch boards. This much was missed and found by trailing down to the Minnehaduzza where the material was found Friday morning. Dave Peters had tracked the wagon from the lumber yard to John Marks' in the northeast part of town. Later, L. C. Sparks, accompanied by Marshal Hilsinger, went up there and found Ernest Marks just returning from a trip down on the Minnehaduzza with a wagon that had lime marks on the running gears and this led to the discovery of the lime and lumber. Another load of lumber and shingles was found in the barn near the Marks' home, belonging to Jim Steadman. Ernest Marks was arrested and suspicion also rests upon Jim Steadman as being implicated.

Last Saturday night W. A. Pettycrew's store was broken into and a sack of flour, several cans of baking powder, some "Big Bale" tobacco, a few pails of lard and probably other articles, stolen. Marshal Hilsinger and Walther Meltendorf saw a suspicious looking figure climb over Perry Lawson's fence and went to investigate, finding Sol Marshall, who gave some trivial excuse, and they passed up the street. While standing near the corner of Robt. McGeer's saloon they saw the same figure pass up the alley, crossing Catherine street, and followed to see what he could be up to. They found some of the stolen goods back of Pettycrew's store, but Sol had disappeared, and they went up to John Marshall's home where they found Sol in bed and had a package Big Bale smoking tobacco with him. They had noticed that his shoulder was covered with flour and when they found the stolen good immediately connected him with the robbery.

Milt Latta's recently patented valveless pumping device sets them all a thinking to hear of a hollow pipe without a valve or cylinder pumping water like a pump and Milt says will outpump a pump that has both pipe and pump. He is going to give a funny little exhibition in Valentine as soon as he gets a larger sized rig set up that will make the boys laugh. Milt says he will make easy prices to all the boys applying to him for the fastest money maker ever possessed by a poor working man and show the purchaser how to operate it. Address him at Valentine, Nebr. 8 3

The town board, through their chairman, W. S. Barker, applied to M. P. Kinkaid last December for the northwest quarter and the north half of the southwest quarter of '0 34 27, then a part of the Ft. Niobrara military reservation, to be granted to Valentine for the purpose of using as a site for a reservoir and a dam for water to furnish us with power to pump our own water and run our electric light system. Mr. Barker has just received a message that congress has granted his request and that the land—240 acres—comes to Valentine without the payment of a dollar. Valentine has already 720 acres, which, together with this 240 acres, makes 960 acres which will furnish Valentine citizens with a place to herd town cows and water them, besides the dam, water works and electric light system, which will lessen the burden of taxation and make Valentine an ideal place to live, with more natural advantages than any other town in the state.

Good News.

Manager Chase guarantees to bring the biggest and best company that he has ever presented in Valentine. The plays are all new metropolitan successes and Clint and Bessie Robbins will appear in all new specialties. They open their engagement in Clyde Fitch's last story of the day, "On Friday, the 13th," a play that will please you.
